01 About the Tour

FES - THE SPIRITUAL AND CULTURAL JEWEL OF THE MAGHREB

"The breath of Al-Andalus, the soul of the Maghreb, the gem of Islamic civilization in the west..."

Morocco is the most elegant gateway of Islamic civilization opening to the west; it is a unique geography where knowledge, mysticism, architecture, and deeply rooted culture intertwine. A journey here is a special voyage opening to both history and spirituality, as well as to a captivating aesthetic. Casablanca, with its magnificent Hassan II Mosque rising on the Atlantic Ocean coast, showcases Morocco's modern face while reflecting the grandeur of Islamic architecture in the west.

Fes, home to the Al-Qarawiyyin University - still the world's oldest active university - is a center of knowledge and wisdom; with its narrow streets, madrassas, and bazaars, it presents a vibrant Islamic urban fabric.

Marrakech, with its red ochre cityscape and Koutoubia Mosque, is an ancient capital that lets you feel the spirit of Maghrebi architecture.

Rabat, with its palaces, madrassas, and historical monuments, reflects Morocco's state traditions and urban culture.

Chefchaouen, with its azure streets, is a city of tranquility; it still carries the aesthetic traces left by Muslims who migrated from Al-Andalus.

Tangier, at the meeting point of Africa and Europe, is Islam's maritime gateway opening to the west.

The Atlas Mountains, valley paths opening to the desert, and Berber culture make Morocco an exceptional travel opportunity combining nature, history, and spirituality. These lands, bearing the footsteps of great Sufi masters, give visitors a sense of profound peace and deeply rooted civilization.

For the believer, Morocco is both a remembrance and a discovery:

It offers together the honored heritage of Islam in the west, the unfading breath of Al-Andalus, and the unique culture of the Maghreb.
